

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A window blind includes a transmission mechanism for lifting and lowering and/or tilting the slats of a Venetian blind. The mechanism includes a manually operated or motorized driving unit, and at least one cord roll-up unit. In the manually operated configuration, a single independent operating device is connectable to one or more driving force inputs of the mechanism. Also disclosed is a method for controlling a blind.